

After Management's delay tactics last time, today we...

Get down to business!

Here's the Bargaining Team that met with management today. In this photo, we're caucusing in between negotiating sessions, reviewing and discussing the articles we've traded with management.

Today, we presented 14 articles to management, including job vacancies, seniority, grievance procedure and union security.

Management also introduced three proposals of their own and responded to our proposal on the grievance process. In our caucus, we discussed this one at length and will work to ensure a strong, fair process.

We will meet again for two full-day sessions next week and hope to reach tentative agreement on some of the proposals we've exchanged with management today.

Is there something you'd like to see improved in your contract?
